

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Following funeral services conducted at the home of his niece, Mrs. E. E. E. Gave, at East Killingly Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the body of Deacon Edward R. Gave was brought to Danielson for burial in Westfield cemetery. Rev. J. W. Carpenter of the East Killingly Baptist church conducted the funeral service at which hymns were sung by Mrs. Andrew Potter and Mrs. Walter T. Wood. The bearers were Robert Smith, Cyrus Smith, Albert Greenleaf, George Winslow, Albert Brooks and George Long. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

This is circus day in Danielson—the first in years for this community. It means a big crowd in town and about near a good business for the merchants as well as for the circus. The show, the largest that has exhibited in Danielson in a score of years, was due to arrive here about 4 o'clock this morning and to unload the 13-car train on sidings at the Main street crossing and in the railroad yard, opposite Oak street.

Danielson Elks and many from this place who are not Elks, but are interested in the doing of the order, were at Putnam Friday evening for Danielson and Mardi Gras night. A large number of cars converged the local aggregation.

The local people stayed at the fair until the last gun was fired and had a splendid time throughout the evening.

It is evident from quotations of the Boston curb markets published in papers of that city that the second preferred stock of the Connecticut Mills company is rising in value—and that it is worth very much more than stockholders were lead to believe a month or six weeks ago. A recent Boston curb quotation on this issue was $28 per share. The par value is $10.

The present tendency among the local holders of this stock is to cling to it, believing that in due time it will again reach par. In any event, no more of it is likely to be sold hereabouts for the present at $10 per share, as was the case with one block of ten shares disposed of a few weeks ago when popular report had it that the stock was next to worthless.

That no false impressions may be created by anything that may have been said at Thursday's special town meeting relative to the construction of a yarn mill at Goodyear, where operations for the construction of such a plant were abandoned two years ago, it may be stated this morning that the facts are these: The Goodyear Mills company retains the plans for the mill on which work was started. Business is good at the plant at the present time and its future apparently very promising. However, the Goodyear Mills are still tied up on yarn contracts made back in the time before the readjustment period set in and these contracts will not expire until fall and the yarn contracted for must be used up before Goodyear is free to consider the manufacture of yarn on its own account. From an economic standpoint, it is pointed out, Goodyear could manufacture yarn at a considerably lower price than it can buy it from other manufacturers, and this is the salient point in the whole situation. While it cannot be definitely stated at just this time that the yarn mill will be built at Goodyear, that is a possibility, it is not a probability. Goodyear is holding to its plans with the building project in view and that is why whatever was said relative to the yarn mill and its relation to schoolhouse facilities, was said for the information of electors about to pass upon an appropriation matter of importance.

The first in a series of union services scheduled for the summer period will be held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, daylight saving time, at the Congregational church. The address will be delivered by Walter E. Williams. Members of the Methodist and Baptist churches are uniting with the Congregationalists for these services, which are to be held in different churches.

This year the members of Quinebaug Pomona grange, which includes all the subordinate granges in Windham county and some beyond the county borders, will hold its annual field meet at Wildwood park August 16. Mrs. Susie G. Williams of Brooklyn, Pomona secretary, has announced that the program for the day will include games and athletic events and the usual entertaining features at such field days as the grange has had in the past.

This year's field trip of Windham County Farmers' association will take the members through the town of Plainfield and Killingly. It is scheduled for August 23. The members will assemble at the association headquarters in Putnam and travel by automobiles to various farms where special demonstrations with growing crops are underway. Exports will accompany the party and make explanatory addresses relative to the demonstrations. The committee is made up of Mrs. Susie G. Williams of Brooklyn, John R. Stromberg of Abington and William Warren of Eastford.

Numbers of residents of Danielson and the surrounding territory are interested in the fact that the annual Douglas Camp meeting, a fixture for many years, will open Friday, July 21, this year and continue through the two following Sundays. These meetings annually attract a considerable number of Danielson people.

Rev. A. B. Riggs of Lowell, former district superintendent of the denomination, is to preach at services to be held Sunday morning and evening, at the usual hours, at the Pentecostal church. Rev. Mr. Riggs is an especially forceful preacher and attracts many to hear him upon his occasional visits to Danielson.

Joseph LaBonte, student at LaSalle college, Hartford, and his sister, Miss Laura Irene LaBonte of St. Joseph's convent at Grovesendale, are spending the summer vacation with their father, Joseph LaBonte.

Louis A. Wolstead, student at Georgetown university, is spending three weeks at his home in Danielson.

Four members of the track repair crew operating out of Danielson are on strike. The remainder of the crew under Foreman Michael Peters is regularly continuing the work.

Thomas J. Aylward and Miss Helen E. Aylward were visitors in Providence on Friday.

As in the old days, many had planned Friday evening to be on hand early this morning to watch the unloading of the circus train—really a very interesting operation.

Rev. Luther W. Smith, acting pastor of the Baptist church, will conduct the Sunday morning service.

Mrs. Michael McDermott remains critically ill at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, where she has been a patient for many weeks.

The body of Mrs. Abbie Young, 55, wife of Isaac Young, was forwarded Friday from Plainfield by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy to Stamford, where burial will take place.

William H. Bishop of Brooklyn is visiting in California and recently was a luncheon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Luther.

South Killingly is going to celebrate the opening of the new state highway to that place by having a chowder supper and a program of entertainment next Tuesday evening.

Persons who are around the circus ground early enough today will have an opportunity to see a very clever device—a miniature pile driver that puts in stakes at the rate of one a minute and displaces the old sledge swinging crews.

The stake-driving machine is operated by a gasoline engine.

Between Hopkins' crossing and the Rhode Island line a big crew is at work rebuilding the final stretch of the state highway toward the Connecticut line at Little Rest. East of Hopkins crossing the Rhode Island end of the new road is in good condition, but the entire route from Providence to Danielson is positively closed to through traffic on account of the heavy grading, excavating and blasting that is going on.

Henry A. Hodgson of Providence is visiting friends in Danielson for the week end.

In any one of the many flavors we serve, the excellence of Daggett's Real Ice Cream, Moomup, is evident.—adv.

Dwight A. Davis, of South Killingly, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Harriet Irene, to Ernest Carlson Winsor of Harmony, R. I.

Danbury.—At the Danbury Library, a feature is being made of a "week end" table, light reading especially adapted for week end reading.

PUTNAM

Over at Quaddle, an Anderson touring car that has been destroyed by fire was an object of interest Friday. The machine, it develops through an investigation by the Putnam police, was stolen in Worcester last Sunday. It was the property of James Fitzgerald of Worcester and it had been used as a booze runner since it disappeared from Worcester and was deliberately destroyed after the thieves had used it to serve their purpose.

It appears that the car was set afire at the left rear wheel and allowed to blaze. Empty bottles that were found under the car and other evidence on the ground about the car strengthens the theory that it had been used in booze running.

Fire completely wrecked the machine and it is nearly worthless to the owner, if not wholly so.

Mr. Fitzgerald was communicated with and told what had happened to his car, and he was expected here late Friday night to inspect the machine and to decide what he would do with it.

Thousands of trout from the state hatchery have just been released in brooks in the towns of Putnam, Thompson, Pomfret and Killingly. The young trout were taken from the hatchery and taken to favorite fishing streams for release. A further supply of the fingerlings will be forthcoming in September for release in brooks in this territory, where the trout fishing season that closed last week has not been generally successful, indicating that the streams were quite thoroughly fished out.

Connecticut is winning more and more devotees each year and the re-stocking now under way will be very much appreciated by all interested in the sport.

Another big crowd was at the Elks' fairgrounds at Tatum field Friday, which was Danielson-Mooseup night and Mardi Gras night. Several hundred residents of the towns to the south came here, including the Elks who are members of Putnam lodge and live in the places mentioned. The visitors brought along a band and participated in the usual nightly parade.

The immense interest in the fair was made very evident Thursday evening when Governor Everett J. Lake was in attendance. The grounds were fairly jammed with people and all found much to interest them, the excellent vaudeville proving especially entertaining.

The success of the entire venture is now assured, notwithstanding the hard handicap the weatherman set against the entire day during the early part of the week.

A recent suicide in Woodstock Center was that of Gilva V. Calkins, 70, a farmer, resident in the town for the past nine years. Last Sunday afternoon, while his wife was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, Mr. Calkins went to the barn and fired a bullet into his brain. Apparently his death was instantaneous. Returning, his wife did not find her husband about the house. Going to the barn to search for him, she found his body lying in a pool of blood. No cause is assigned for the suicide, which came as a great surprise to the dead man's relatives and friends. He leaves his wife, two sons and a daughter.

Automobilists who are inclined to speeding will do well to exercise more than ordinary care as to when and where they attempt it, for the state police department is doing much patrolling of the state highways in this section, and a motorcycle officer is apt to be encountered at almost any place, day or night. For instance, drivers who went over the route between Putnam and Danielson Thursday night encountered State Officer Merrill Keith on the job.

Speeding is an expensive luxury in more ways than one, and as the state police are now keeping close watch for the flyers an extra hazard is added to all that went before.

Week end visitors to Camp Woodstock, where 100 boys from towns in Windham, Tolland and Hartford counties are in camp, will find the route to North Woodstock the best to use in getting to the camp site on Block pond. This highway is state road all the way to North Woodstock, where the cut-off to the camp takes one over a fairly good dirt road. The route is a bit longer than an optional one from South Woodstock, but is to be preferred by all motorists.

The boys are now well settled at camp and are having a splendid time. Clean and healthful diversions occupy their day. Field events, boating, bathing and aquatic sports all enter into the programs of the day, and hiking also will be a feature of life for the campers, who are expecting many visitors today (Saturday) and Sunday.

Putnam people who have not forgotten what the boys who went out for service in the World War did for the nation, and who would appreciate an opportunity to do something for the soldiers, have their chance in providing furnishings for the new post and social quarters of the local organization of the American Legion.

The new quarters are not fully furnished and the legion members have not sufficient funds in the post treasury to complete the furnishing. The post can use such things as a bookcase, a Morris chair, card table, a desk chair, a small table to be used as business meetings and

Much of this kind of equipment is to be found about homes in the city—and not in use. In many cases furniture that is out of service and stored away would be used to fine advantage at the legion room, which the members hope to make very cheerful and comfortable.

A herd of elephants, camels, some lions, tigers and other wild beasts was in the Putnam railroad yard early this morning, but is not there now. The animals, it may be mentioned, were all securely housed within the care of the 19-car train of the Walter L. Main circus, which was travelling from Woonsocket through this city to a town to the south.

More than 100 girls whose ages range from 9 to 16 are at camp Utopia on the Shepard farm in Woodstock, out from New York and the vicinity of the great city to a summer holiday that will extend to Sept. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lebowitz are in charge of the camp, and with them is a corps of adult assistants. This is one of the numerous camps for young people now dotting the territory in Woodstock and Eastford.

Following are the newly elected Baptist Young People's officers for the coming six months: President, Miss Thara Louise Ames; vice president, Leroy S. Ames; treasurer, Miss Florence Smith; secretary, Miss Beatrice Gardner.

Numbered among the schemes that one hears of to manufacture and distribute illicitly made liquor for a profit is that of a still on a little island in a body of water not a million miles from Putnam. When the still is working, dogs are on the island, and these are depended upon to give an alarm of the approach of anyone, thus affording the moonshiners time to sink their still in the water and be rid of other evidence that might confound them before officers can reach them.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Hopkin of Pomfret are to leave Monday for Bar Harbor, where they are to remain for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Ream and children are to sail today (Saturday) for France. Only recently Mr. Ream returned from a visit in England.

A fireworks display postponed from the Fourth was of interest to Eastford people Friday evening. Next Tuesday evening the people of this city will see a fine display of fireworks at Tatum field.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church held a meeting at the parsonage Friday evening.

Mid-week meetings at the Second Congregational church of this city have been discontinued until September.

Mrs. J. J. Russell, Mrs. John H. Moss and daughter Nancy are at Jupiter Point, Fla., for the summer months.

W. H. Pickering is to speak next Tuesday evening, giving a Bible lecture under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association.

Dr. P. T. Baldwin and a party of friends motored to Windsor, this state, Friday to attend the horse races.

Richard S. Bascom of Hartford has opened his cottage at Pine Grove for the season. His daughter, Mrs. Howard Cath, and daughter Andre of New Bedford, Mass., are here for the season.

Mrs. E. A. Asman has returned to her cottage in the Grove after a visit to her brother, George Potter, of Essex.

E. A. Aston of Bridgeport spent the holiday with Mrs. Aston of Orchard street.

Charles Bushnell of Norwich was a recent guest of his sister, Mrs. Fred G. Prothro.

Lincoln G. Luce and family of Stafford Springs were guests Sunday of Clarence Luce and family.

Morris Johnson of Williamstown was the guest of local friends Sunday.

Ne-walk.—Sergeant J. H. Gibson of the Norwich police force has been suspended by the police commission. He is accused of engaging in bootlegging. He has been a member of the force for fourteen years. The charge was first made against him by Michael Zaccorini, who recently was fined $1,500 for running a still and selling liquor. Zaccorini claims he was forced into the business by Gibson.
